ATTACK ON POLICE SYSTEM TO FOLLOW COOPER'S DEATH.

Vanderbilt Man Permitted to Lay in Cell for 24 Hours Without Medical Attention.

HE EXPIRED AT HOSPITAL.

Creation of Desks Sergeant at City Hall Advocated As Consequence of the Affairs—Coroner A. S. Hagan Will Investigate Matter Thoroughly.

Jacob Cooper, who was found in a cell in the borough lockup yesterday morning with a supposed fractured skull died at the Cottage State Hospital shortly after 8 o'clock last night. As a consequence of the circumstances surrounding his death a thorough investigation will be made by Coroner A. S. Hagan this morning.

It is now said that Cooper's death was due to asphyxia brought on by constant indulgence in alcoholic spirits. Whatever be the cause of death Coroner Hagan will determine whether or not negligence had anything to do with it. He was left to lie in a cell in the lockup without attention for 24 hours. It is said that Oscar J. Anderson, now the first policeman to go next Cooper after he was found in the rear of the Marietta Hotel Thursday morning. He was then spitting blood. Anderson was about to make arrangements for his removal to the hospital when called away by a street brawl. By the time Anderson had placed the offender under arrest he was detailed to the South Side by Burgess Solson, and State Constable Mason who came across Cooper, took it for granted he was dead drunk and had him hauled to the police station in a wagon. Anderson was not at the station when Cooper was brought in.

The unconscious man was locked up in a cell and remained there until yesterday morning, when Anderson who is an early turn recognized him as the man he had seen the morning previous. Being told he was permitted to be summoned Cooper was apparently suffering from a fractured skull, a superficial examination indicating this.

This affair has accentuated the already strong sentiment that the police system in vogue at City Hall is radically wrong and needs reforming. The practice of arresting a man and locking him up without an investigation and letting him lie in a cell for hours is regarded as unsafe and inadmissible. For that reason, then, it is proposed to make the position of sergeant whose duty it will be to make a record of each prisoner's case when he is arrested. This is the practice observed in the cities and larger towns and is considered the best way to handle this business.

Although it is not expected that any individual officer will be censured as a consequence of Cooper's death it is likely that the present incident will be scored for its many deficiencies. The present affair will have a tendency to make the officers more cautious in locking men up in their cells. Cooper's condition when arrested day before yesterday was such as to warrant a further investigation of his condition.

His body was removed to J. E. Sims' undertaking establishment to be prepared for burial. After the investigation by Coroner Hagan it will be taken to his home in Vanderbilt. Cooper comes of a good family. He was related to Cooper Patterson of New Haven and Congressman Allen E. Cooper of Uniontown. He was about 50 years of age.

LONDONERS AWED

By Exhibition of the New English War Balloon Circling Over City this Morning.

United Press Telegram.

! UNION, Oct. 5.—Circling over the city like a great bird rising and dropping at the will of the steersman and an evering its helm like a ship in a smooth sea the new English war balloon gave startled Londoners the first exhibition of the possibilities of aerial navigation, one witness said. Thousands watched the big dirigible as it rose too low to cheer. The airship started from Aldershot and traveled to London thirty-five miles away. It circled St. Paul's dome, then steering toward the Thames river, hovered over the water performing various maneuvers in a perfectly bath-tub manner.

In straight line advances it maintained speed of fifteen miles an hour. After the exhibition above London the airship headed back toward Aldershot.

A large number of merchants took the stand this morning. Long has half given testimony to his good character and endeavoring to prove that Mrs. Kuntz does not enjoy a good reputation among the storekeepers of the county seat. Long claims he has demanded only $10 from Mrs. Kuntz to pay the costs of prosecution, attorneys fees and value of goods a legend to have been taken by her. The case attracts much interest.

This afternoon the case was adjourned until Monday. The defense has not completed its case yet.

REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGNERS AT OHIOPYLE. NO MEETING OF COUNCIL HELD

County Chairman John R. Byrne With Party of Candidates Met the Voters There Today and Incidentally Spiked Canard That Had Been Put in Circulation.

From a Staff Correspondent.

OHIOPYLE, Oct. 5.—County Councilman John R. Byrne and his party of Republican candidates were meeting the voters here today. They came up on the morning train from Connellsville and were in town by the time arriving Burgess Railroad. They went on to them to the little meeting room at the Burgess Hotel. While waiting and quite a crowd of older men waited there, some of whom were old timers, the speaker began to speak. He said he was here to help the miners to record broader, more progressive legislation.

A silly campaign canard that had been circulated here and in Stewart townships was spiked this morning when John K. Hunt met Mr. Van Sweringen. He shook hands with him and then remarked Van I for Poor Director and D. W. Henrion for District Attorney.

George Patterson who was Mr. Hunt's opponent at the Pittsburg election was also with the party. Mr. Patterson is especially strong through this section having carried a number of districts over. He is a man of the people and is known to know that he is honest and sound for the Republican ticket. He is alone to honest the miners to record broader, more progressive legislation.

ONE FACTION ARRIVED LATE.

Councilman Girard and His Colleagues Were There on Time, But Faded Away When None of the Other Four Appeared—Many Kickin Registered.

The members of Town Council or a portion of them at least again last night repeated a political performance they had adopted in the spring. There was no meeting owing to the absence of a quorum. President of Council George Porter, who called the meeting at 7:30 P.M. failed to make his appearance at the Council Chambers in City Hall until nearly an hour after his own uninvited time. The absence of Councilman John Dean in Pittsburgh kept the other three members of his faction President Porter and members Clair Sillivagon and William McCormick away from the meeting until he arrived on the Duquesne Limited. Even then these four members did not make their appearance until 8:30 o'clock.

Councilman Henry Paul Girard and Michael Rees on hand at 7:30. Appearances indicated that there would be no meeting. Rev. Huston stated it was his impression that President Porter could not attend the meeting. The party waited until after 8:15, when it disbanded. A few minutes later the other faction appeared.

Councilman Dean is reported as making the remark that the other side had no kick coming as the failed to attend the meeting for a minute. He said that he believed it was half an hour past and that they were several hours behind schedule time.

After waiting in the Council chamber for several minutes the Sillivagon faction left the rooms and came up town. Mr. Sillivagon suggested this to President Porter who seemed willing to wait a few minutes longer followed the the deposited Democratic chief.

There was important business for Council to transact. The one side had no kick coming as the failed to attend the meeting for a minute. He said that he believed it was half an hour past and that they were several hours behind schedule time.

FIVE PERSONS LOST THEIR LIVES

When Gas House on Water Avenue Ignited Early One Morning Four Months Ago—Victim Just Out of Hospital.

An inquest will be held this afternoon to determine the cause of death of the four persons who perished in the gas house explosion in the tenement house on Water Street just out of hospital.

John K. Hunt and his wife John and John J. Morrissey, their two children, Mary, an infant, and Elizabeth Elizabeth McGrath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McGrath of Glenwood.

The only witness who can give any definite testimony on the cause of the accident will be Mrs. Thomas McGrath, who was so rashly informed that her death was at first laid to the charge of Mrs. McGrath.

Joe Williams and Mrs. Alice Williams, his wife, were at a neighboring station when they learned that their son had been killed.

The terrible tragedy was still fresh in the minds of neighbors in the neighborhood. On the morning of June 19, a terrible explosion of natural gas occurred in the gas room of the Monongahela family who occupied it in the old brick tenement house along Water Street just above the Ohio River. Their occupants were all frightenedly burned. Mrs. McGrath, the only one who survived her injuries.

At first it was believed the death would occur only the wife of the Monongahela couple, who was 19 years old. But the husband, George, was found to be dead shortly after his wife.

It is believed that the gas was leaking from the pipe leading to the gas burner in the kitchen.

Williams and his wife were at the gas burner when the gas exploded.

According to Report From Washington, Pa., But Nothing of Case is Known Here.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 5.—Word reached here today that the gas explosion which occurred in the gas room of the Monongahela family was caused by a leak in the gas pipe.

At the time of the explosion nothing was known of the identity of the gas burner.

Williams and his wife were at the gas burner when the gas exploded.

GIVES ADVICE ON WATERWAYS

Tells Convention That Some Comprehensive and Systematic Plan for Conserving and Utilizing Nation's Streams Should Be Adopted

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 5.—With bands playing, children singing and enthusiastic men shouting the slogan of deep waterways, Memphis threw wide her gates to President Roosevelt, a score of governors and many other distinguished personages.

The president arrived on the steamer Mississippi shortly after 1 o'clock. The 4½-mile stretch of river were packed with people who gave the chief executive a warm welcome.

The president was conducted to a carriage by Governor Patterson of Tennessee and Mayor Malone of Memphis and the most imposing parade ever given here was begun. When the president's carriage turned into Main street he was saluted by a regiment of Confederate veterans who thereafter acted as a bodyguard.

At the auditorium rink where the deep waterways convention is holding, President Roosevelt made his address being presented by Gov. Malcolm Patterson.

Reports from His Text.

President Roosevelt departed from his printed speech in several instances. He urged the people to disregard party lines in all purely national affairs. In connection with his discussion of corporations the president said his experience in the last few years had brought him to the point of feeling sincere sympathy for certain who were cast into a frenzy by the most commonsense remarks.

It had come to the point where a remark of his honesty was the best policy to lead to a run on the banks.

He did not want to punish anyone except for a wrongdoing but he would punish the wrongdoer who was poor as the one who was rich.

"I will use my utmost power to stamp out iniquitous and lawless anarchy," he declared. "I will no more stay my hand because a wrong does me; I am a labor leader than if he masquerades as a captain of industry. I have heretofore expressed myself on the subject of an undesirable citizens and I stand by what I said. I am a capitalist who wins a fortune by chicanery and wrongdoing and when he is a man who under the guise of standing up for labor preaches and encourages violence and murder."

When the president closed his address he was driven rapidly to his train at the Missouri Pacific station where he departed at 5 o'clock for Lake Providence La. for a hunting trip.

NARROW ESCAPE

For Henry Martin, Porter at the Wyman Hotel at the Pennsy Station

Henry Martin, a porter who has been porter at the Wyman Hotel for the past several years left yesterday for his old home in Austria. A number of friends gathered at the station to bid him good bye. When the train started Martin was still shaking hand and in his efforts to board the moving train slipped and fell. He rolled between the track and the platform.

Frank Fee Adams, Express agent saw Martin a peril and placing his foot on his chest held him in the position he fell until the train passed. It was rare presence of mind and undoubtedly saved Martin's life.

Martin has a wife and family in Austria and returns to visit them about every two years.

CUT DOWN TO BUSINESS OR GET OUT.

Willful and deliberate absences long continued and persistent is a sufficient legal ground for the removal of her Town Councilmen or School Directors. In the latter case the School Boards are authorized to declare the seats of such absences vacant and to forthwith themselves elect new members to fill the vacancies. Town Councils are not authorized to do this, but the Courts on petition and hearing are empowered to remove the recalcitrant members and appoint others in their stead.

Municipal affairs in Connellsville have reached a stage where the public men of the Town Council will have to attend to their duties or face the possibility of a petition for their removal and if such a proceeding is entered there is little or no possibility of some of them continuing longer to hold an office to which they have signally failed to give even a decent respect much less faithful service.

We have called attention to this matter before and have pleaded with the members to lay aside personal偏見 and get down to business. We business men and good citizens. We must do all we can to encourage the members to lay aside personal偏見 and get down to business or get out and if they persist in refusing to do either they should be helped out vigorously and unmercifully.

CONNELLSVILLE,
DEMOCRATS IGNORED.

The Democratic candidate for State Treasurer and his supporters orators ignored Connellsville on their tour of the State, in spite of the fact that it is the center of Democracy as well as of Coke.

The headquarters of Fayette county Democracy have always been at Union on its organization is there and its Chairman is one of the most residents the state. No time immemorial State campaign parties have always stopped in Connellsville where the candidates have addressed a tough crowd of Democrats on the issues of the day. Since the party has been handed over to a bunch of Uptown lawyers this condescension is to be omitted.

All this in the face of the fact that Connellsville and the region round about it is the stronghold of Fayette county Democracy. The party gets its votes here and its leadership at the county seat. The tail wags the dog.

It is a very submissive old dog. Its spirit is broken; its hopes are dead. It is content to follow when it isn't too tired and then it walks along in accordance with the Biblical injunction upon its neck.

The car family is said to have actually arrived in town in time that runs ahead of schedule time.

There is no truth in the rumor that President Roosevelt wants the Pittsburg post put out of the Mississippi because "it's bad for him." The day of racing on the hill, never over.

John Tarbell's opposition to the Standard Oil Company is explained. It once squandered his brother and it's no real bad.

Ain't it funny what a difference just a few cocktails make to a Vice Presidant.

Lieutenant Governor "Bob" Murphy gave the silver tongued Virginia orator a specimen of Pennsylvania eloquence that held them spell bound.

Connellsville will not visit the Jamestown Expo like in a body.

A NEW DEPARTURE
IN CAMPAIGNING

Chairman Byrnes of the Republican County Committee has inaugurated a new plan of campaign in Fayette county and is prone to prove wise from every point of view.

The Republican candidate and the Chairman are making a systematic tour of the country, not for the purpose of making bungo speeches but for the purpose of mingling and meeting with the voters. The latter like to see and to personally know those for whom they expect to vote. They are better able to judge a man when they meet him hand to hand and eye to eye.

There is strength in unity. The old plan of every candidate hustling for himself alone was not conducive to party harmony. It bred a selfish disposition that was too often willing to sacrifice the party for the individual. The new plan presents a united and harmonious front to the common enemy.

There has also been too great a division in the past to do all the fighting at the primary and to assume the Republican vote at the general election as a matter of right. Ordinarily it is the duty of a partisan to vote his party ticket but the spirit of independence is broad in the land and it has won its appearance in Fayette county from time to time.

The Republican candidates are not demanding votes as a matter of inalienable right but on their merits as Republicans and citizens. They are not assuming that the fight is won before the voting has taken place. The people on their part like to have their support solicited as a favor and not demanded as a duty.

The Republican band wagon is driving the road that leads to success

SURMISES
AND SURPRISES

A Fayette county Democratic organ in the Republican candidates are touring the country in automobiles and giving the names of the farmers and of a campaign of that kind can be easily surmised."

The tour will not be confined to the automobile. It will embrace the best vehicles available for speed and comfort. The Republican candidates propose to see the people at a man of them as possible. They are neither proud nor lazy. They are hustlers in politics and in business. The people won't need to surmise anything about them. They will have an opportunity to meet them and to know. They will be shown.

The Democratic aggregation doesn't get around so fast or speed and style as the Republicans will have to. It will be surprising to the aggregation aforesaid when the votes are counted.

It is useless for the members of the Town Council to excuse this failure to attend the regularly called meetings on the grounds that they were not invited or members did not attend other previous meetings. That is not a good excuse to have nor in common sense. Two men should make a right. It is time for everybody to make an effort to do right.

The rumor that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company is going to electrify its system in certain electric lines to an answer in court.

Tom Platt cannot escape the reputation of being a fascinating old scoundrel.

We hope that the Sunday School Convention will do its best for the good of the school. The people regular has been enlivened by the presence of the Rev. Dr. W. H. Howard, who is a man of great ability.

A LITTLE PRISONER.

Boy Who Took Horse and Buggy at Scottdale Taken to Greensburg.

IT WILL BE A MILD WINTER.

Said That "Hornets' Nests" Hang High This Fall and That's a Sign—George Howard Suffers Second Amputation. Other News.

SCOTTDALE. Oct. 5.—The State Police took Frank Baberul, the boy alleged to have taken the horse and buggy of Frank Hixson, who lives west of town, from where the boy was hitched above Elcher & Grait's store, and who was caught near McClure on Wednesday, to Greensburg on Friday, and the boy will be given a hearing there. He will probably be sent to a reformatory. The boy's parents were to visit him and say they don't know what to do with him, as he has been getting clear away from them lately. The mother brought clean clothes to Scottdale for the boy and when his mother kissed him good bye at the lock-up, gave him a pat on the shoulder and started him away with the State officers. He was quite a presentable looking little fellow. A charge of incorrigibility will be entered against him and another problem of finding a boy will be put to its solution. He was armed with the officer while abroad, handcuffed together, were the two boys who had been caught, one with a murderous sling shot and the other with a cheap revolver, drunk and wandering about town, and who will be given a hearing on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

Quite a lot of hay was brought to town by the nearby farmers on Saturday. It is being used a great deal for horse and cattle feed since so much oats is being diverted to making breakfast food for the people.

George Howard, who ran a rusty nail in his foot seven weeks ago and who had his foot amputated Wednesday, was compelled to undergo the surgeon's knife on Friday because disease so rapidly taking further hold on him within a few hours that his leg had to be amputated below the knee. In this connection one wonders that not more people fall victims of the deadly rusty nail. It is such a fashion among so many people to throw planks and boards down with the rusty spikes and nails sticking out of them waiting to wound someone. If you have not noticed that, take a look the next time you are around, where repairs or building is going on.

James J. Caulfield in his automobile has been taking Republican County Chairman J. R. Byrne about through Fayette county with a party of the county candidates. They were up at Martleyburg and some other points about there on Friday. It is said that the buckwheat crops are good in that section, so there should be some good hotcake to induce in this winter for which the people should be properly prepared.

There is a prophecy for an easy winter. O. H. Ellery related this to the writer the other day. "The hornets are building their nests now this year," he said. "That's one of the old time signs that the winter is to be an easy one. It is reasoned out this way. The instinct of the hornet is that it will not need to heat its nest low, as the trees are not to be broken by violent storms. If a hard, stormy winter is coming, the hornet puts its nest down low where it will be sheltered. That prophecy has the goose buns and onion ring beaten to faint imitation of a weather forecaster."

The Greensburg grooms and their guests, the Nevilles, of Brandeis, rode into town and turned around and rode right out again on Friday. They had taken a swing around the circle on the trolley from Greensburg, going on both the Mt. Pleasant and Hinchliffe and the Tuscany routes, so as to get a view of some real coke country. Incidentally they saw some fine farming lands, particularly along the Middle church on the Hinchliffe route. They were accompanied by a brass band and enjoyed the two hour trip immensely.

The Scottdale Volunteer Fire Company and the G. A. S. Band, who came to the Firemen's Convocation in Pittsburgh, enjoyed their trip greatly and say that it was the biggest convention of grooms they have ever seen to be present.

Street Commissioner T. E. May was out with his force washing Pittsburg street Friday afternoon.

Rev. Dr. Steedsmith, pastor of the United Evangelical church, will preach at Scottdale on Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock, and at Pennsville in the evening at 7:30 o'clock.

NURSING COURSE

For Colored Girls Being Prepared by Dr. Wakefield for Greenwood Industrial School.

The Lone Star Jubilee will appear at the New Haven Auditorium Monday evening, October 7th, at 8 o'clock. Rev. R. W. Christian and associates managers of the American Resident and Correspondence School of Industry, to be located in Greenwood, has secured the services of the nursing company to give a number of enterprising girls the interests of the school. The Lone Star Quarters is one of the best medical organizations in this country. No doubt a large audience will greet them in the auditorium next Monday evening.

Having secured the lots in Greenwood, the managers are now having a special course in nursing prepared by Dr. Catherine Wakefield of Connellsville, to be conducted on the plan of the International Correspondence School of Scranton. By this means they hope to reach a large element of Negro girls and girls hitherto unacquainted by an educational agency.

The aim will be to improve the nurse-maid service throughout the country, to be conducted on a correspondence basis. The first lessons are to be ready about November 1st.

LAST NIGHT

And Afternoon of the Carnival in New Haven—Boxing Bouts Are Scheduled.

This afternoon and evening the last performance at the Hatch Carnival in New Haven will be given. The grounds were a little wet last evening, but they have dried out today and a big crowd is expected this evening. All of the shows will be continued until the very last performance, and not a move will be made to make ready for the next jump until the last act is over.

At Martin's in his boxing bouts had a good crowd last evening and tonight will put on three bouts. He is especially anxious to have Frank Shinnberger come down from Uniontown. Martin says, Shinnberger claims he had the best of the go the other evening. Let him come down and go on with me this evening and see what happens. All through the bout the other evening he kept asking me to call off the supervision of others.

Mr. Tower's reasons are understood to be that, having been abroad for nearly 11 years, he desires again to live in his own country in order to have better care for his sons, who are now nearly grown up, to go to college, and to give his personal attention to interests that have been left to the supervision of others.

Mr. Tower's retirement will remove him from the diplomatic list one of the most experienced of the American representatives in Europe. He has been continuously minister and ambassador longer than any other diplomat in the American service.

Standard Has Shipping Rates Less Than Half Paid by Competitors.

ANOTHER EXCLUSIVE CONTRACT

Well-known Oil Trust Methods in Shipping Oil Abroad Give It Overwhelming Advantage Over Others—William W. Tarbell Testifies.

New York, Oct. 5.—An omnibus contract whereby the Standard Oil company obtains from every state-owned company operating between New York and ports in Africa a rate for the shipment of lubricating oil that is about one-half what its competitor, the New York Lubricating company, says was produced in the hearing of the federal suit against the alleged oil combine.

This contract was placed in evidence and Phillip Harrison, a manager of the New York Lubricating Oil company, declared that his company was forced to pay double the Standard rate, notwithstanding his protest to the steamship companies. Mr. Harrison said that by reason of flight he could not say how much the Standard could charge. His products in Africa at least had the cost price of the oils of his own company and that to maintain its African trade the New York Lubricating Oil company was forced to purchase from the Standard the cheaper grade of oils which it sold to its customers.

Mr. Harrison said that shipping charges to his company were increased from about 21 shillings until they reached 42 shillings 6 pence last year. The contract, which the Standard made on February 10, 1900, with the British-Hanover and American-Africa steamship lines made the standard for oil shipment slightly less than 17 shillings. The witness declared that he wrote a letter to the steamship agents demanding equitable rates for the company, but no change in the charges was made.

W. W. Tarbell of Philadelphia, treasurer of the Pure Oil company and of the United States Pipe Line company, related the difficulties his company experienced in competing with the Standard.

Mr. Tarbell stated that the business of the Pure Oil company was placed in districts selected with a view to avoiding business relations with certain railroads, whose rate discriminations, he continued, were more feared by the company than the opposition of the Standard or open competition. Mr. Tarbell is a brother of Miss Ida Tarbell, who has written much about the Standard Oil company.

MOFFETT SHOWN UP

Signed Statement of Standard Oil Man Has No Foundation.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—A federal grand jury, before which President James A. Moffett of the Standard Oil company of Indiana was recently called to afford him an opportunity to substantiate certain statements made under his name in a pamphlet which has been extensively circulated throughout the country, has returned its report to Judge Landis.

The jury declared that President Moffett had not only failed to uphold the statements made, but that he had no knowledge whatever leading up to them and that the statement purporting to be made by him was made by Morris Bressler of Chicago, an agent of the Standard Oil company. The particular statement in the pamphlet to which the jury was instructed to call the attention of President Moffett follows:

"Thousands of tons of freight have been shipped from these points (Wilming, Ind.; Fullam, Hogewich and Scut's Chicago, Ill.) during the last 15 years under the same circumstances as the Standard claims, and if the Standard is guilty in this case so is practically every other shipper. This great manufacturing territory is there a purpose in selecting Standard as a victim?"

The grand jury after briefly reviewing the testimony of Holland's, which was also barren of results, declared that it was of the opinion that the statements contained in the pamphlet and sent broadcast over the country by Mr. Moffett were entirely without foundation.

DUN'S REVIEW OF TRADE

New York, Oct. 5.—Dun's Weekly Review of Trade said today:

"The latest reports in fall retail trade and results are all that could be desired. There is no sectional difference on this point, all leading cities reporting a liberal distribution of seasonable wearing apparel. Supplementary orders are coming to wholesale and jobbing houses, and satisfactory results with autumn goods encourage manufacturers to extend preparations for the next season. Mercantile collections have also improved. October payments being 50 per cent more than for, although rates for commercial paper, although relatively high, among the manufacturers the most notable increase in orders is reported by New England shoe shops, while there is no idleness at cotton mills and the reduction of the steel output is not significant. In some lines there is a sentiment of conservatism that eliminates much of the customary speculative business and this is regarded with satisfaction by those who appreciate the importance of moderation in the financial press. In reduced 'No change' is observed in the condition of the iron and steel industry. Few sales of pig are recorded and some sections of the market are slightly weaker, but as a rule steady prices prevail and Bessemer is $3.50 per ton higher than a year ago. Export trade has broadened in several sections of the market, a large tonnage of wire going to Canada."

HIS COURTSHIP

By HELEN R. MARTIN,
Author of "Tillie: A Mennonite Maid."

Copyright, 1907, by McClure, Phillips &amp; Company.

The social ease and fluency of his younger brother, Burton, seemed to Peter in those days a little enviable, and when he looked up with weary eyes at the variation between them was ruefully expressed one day to Miss Wolcott their nearest family neighbor.

"Pet plants himself in a corner at a party, scowls, hasn't a word to say, can't dance and can't play cards. And he'll make an average of six crumblies at every party that dad makes him go to. I can dance, play cards, converse and make myself agreeable, and I don't average more than a month. How would you explain it?"

"Cruel!" gently inquired Miss Wolcott, a bachelor maiden of thirty-five.

"Beg pardon. I, mean none of the girls get stuck on me. But they pursue Pet to his corner, and when he is rude and disagreeable to them they say he is original and 'magnetic.' You wouldn't suppose, would you, they'd talk to a stiff Pet?"

"It would be much more reasonable of them to 'take' to a polished and accomplished gentleman like you, Burton," said Miss Wolcott consolingly.

And Burton accepted her sympathetic view with complacency and with a high opinion of Miss Wolcott's judgment.

As Peter grew older he succeeded in conquering over long and extraordinary struggles to make at least the outward signs of his inward perturbation in the society of young ladies. But his mental attitude toward the sex continued to be a mixture of suspicion, contempt, curiosity, mystification and attraction, which so baffled and irritated him that he had come to look upon any contact with girls as an element disturbing to all intellectual labor or anything else in his life that was really worth while.

His life at Rockwell College had been a continual battle in trying (on the whole vainly) to elude the fascinating attentions society was determined to heap upon the good looking new young professor who had the very unusual attraction of a comparatively large independent fortune. The fact that he was difficult and elusive only added zest to the quest.

And yet Peter really lived in the back-ground of his consciousness, hardly recognized by himself, an ideal love, a passionate yearning to be met to find a perfect comradeship. He did not himself know how deep was the longing and the need in his soul for some relation in life in which his strongly emotional nature could find its outlet.

So far was Peter concerning the possibility of discovering in the notes, the chancery and gifts Miss Ellery his soul's invincible companion that there came to him as he lay on his back gazing up into the trees of the old forest a grotesque plot for eluding the society of the expected damsels and insuring the conclusion of his freedom.

"I swear I'll do it!" he exclaimed, and his short burst of anger at the original announcement he foreseen at his own expense through the woods.

"It will give me a chance," he reflected, "to study the psychology of the youthful feminine such as rarely comes to a philosopher! An opportunity to observe it at first hand when it is off its guard and quite unveiled! Here's sport!"

But the young ladies would arrive at noon. There was no time to lose! He sprang from the ground, gathered up his books that were his daily companions in his rambles and started for the farm.

On his way he speculated as to whether the Morningstars would bear him out in his plot. He foresaw the stupefaction of their unimaginative minds before his behavior. And Ellery—would that galvanize her into some signs of admiration? In her role he had to play that girl could possibly sustain the shock of the apparent unconsciousness of what was under her eyes, the blind, dead and dumb demeanor that she had taken up since he had come to this place—it she kept it up, now, well, in that case there would be nothing left to do but cast off all reserve and demand that she explain herself.

CHAPTER III.

WHEN he reached the farm, overheated from his rapid walk in the sun, he stopped at the springhouse to get a glass of water before going into the kitchen.

It was with a sudden sharp thrill that as he stepped into the cool, shady stone room he unexpectedly found himself alone with Eunice.

She was seated on the stone steps to the well, bending laboriously over a torn sheet of a newspaper.

As his figure suddenly darkened the doorway she started violently as though discovered in some shameful guilt. He was held for an instant by the picture she made, the girl of her youthful form in the timid attitude of defensiveness, the beauty of her wide, frightened eyes, the exquisite delicacy of her face in its sudden whiteness. But his second thought was not so complimentary.

"What a treacherous little coward!" was his mental comment, with an impulse of contemptuous pity, for he had not lived here ten days without having seen that this foster daughter of the Morningstars was downtrodden as now.

Eunice.

"Now if she were an intelligent girl it would be interesting to get her fresh impression of a newspaper."

Suddenly, while he regarded her speculatively, sipping his water with deliberation and she returned his gaze with a sort of fascinated contemplation, the doorway was again disclosed, and this time it was Eunice who came into the springhouse. Kinslow was instantly aware of the fact that the girl did not start now nor attempt to hide the newspaper. On the contrary, the presence of the scrubby little farmer seemed suddenly to dissipate the spell which he had evidently cast upon her, for she rose quite deliberately and began to gather together her crocks and cans, keeping the newspaper in her hand.

The small eyed farmer cast a quick, suspicious glance from one to another of the cans.

"Man wants for you to hurry on in there," he gruffly ordered the girl. "She conjectured that you and Abe were soon to be together out here. What for does it take you so wonderful long to fetch in?"

"For the women, there were possibilities, no doubt, in Mrs. Morningstar's jaw you, you'll see once:

"Here!"

He had caught sight of the newspaper and jerked it from her hand. "What's this to do, hell?"

"It belongs to the gentleman," the girl answered, quite untroubled.

"And you gave it to her?" the farmer asked, looking reproachfully at Kinslow.

"I dropped it in here and came back to look for it. Eunice had picked it up and was going to give it to me."

"Ooh, well!" the farmer mumbled, passing it on to him. Kinslow as he took it looked hard at Eunice to see how she received his impromptu detention, but her eyes were veiled and he could not read her face.

"Well," added Morningstar, turning to leave, "you hurry on in, Eunice."

He went away, but Eunice did not so much as glance at Kinslow when they were again alone for a moment. She kept right on with her work of lading herself down with her wares and then without a word started for the house. He had been wondering whether it would be misplaced gallantry to offer to help her carry in her crocks and things, and by the time she was ready to go he had decided against it. But just as she reached the springhouse door he both hurried to return the package.

"Well, added Morningstar, turning to leave, "you hurry on in, Eunice."

She did not seem much reassured by the fact that it was only he. She sank back limply against the step as he came forward and helped himself, but her eyes as they followed him did not lose their strained expression nor her face regain its color. He watched her curiously as he slowly drank a glass of water.

"Can't you conceal it about you?" She turned white again as he spoke to her. "Please, hide it behind the curtain," she said, not raising her eyes and speaking breathlessly, "and I shall drink it this evening."

"Very well," he said.

She was gone, and he turned back to do his bidding and was rising from his stooping position when again a shadow darkened the doorway, and he looked up to see Eunice, with a face white to the lips and still laden with her wares, standing on the threshold.

"Will you please tell me?" she began, and he had to take a step nearer to catch her low spoken words, "who is this Andrew Carnegie?"

"I stared at her for an instant uncomprehendingly. "This Andrew Carnegie?" he asked.

"Yes," she breathed.

"Old Morningstar makes me think over to him to be burned every morning. How did you rescue me?"

She swallowed hard as she attempted to answer, and sat down above a whisper, "He puts them in the stove to burn out," she said, "and speaking breathlessly, "and I shall regain its color."

"Very well," he said.

HOT POLITICAL FIGHT

Will Be Waged in Massachusetts, Commencing Today.

INTERESTS ENTIRE COUNTRY.

Henry M. Whitney, Original Member of the Ananias Club, and Advocate of Tariff Reform the Opponent of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge.

Special to The Courier
PROSSON, Oct. 5.—The fiercest political battle Massachusetts will witness in a score of years begins to stir with the holding of the State Nominating Convention by the two leading parties. While the Republicans are holding their convention in Boston, the Democrats meet in Springfield. Governor Curtis Guild Jr., and Lieutenant Governor E. S. Diaper will be renominated by the Republicans. Henry M. Whitney will be the Democratic standard bearer and his running mate, in all probability will be George A. Schofield of Ipswich well known as the persistent advocate of the veterans' bounty bill.

The campaign is bound to attract national attention. The administration itself is concerned deeply over the outcome of the officer election in Massachusetts for two reasons, one that Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, the closest friend of President Roosevelt in Congress, is contended with a desperate fight leader of the State organization, and the other that Henry M. Whitney, the Democrat nominated is known as a original member of the "Ananias Club."

Henry M. Whitney is going to make his campaign on a tariff reform platform. He is a brother of the late William G. Whitney of New York, a man of large financial interests who has long taken a prominent part in the politics of the State, but, until a few years ago not in a manner to give him national prominence. Thomas W. Lawson helped to bring him into prominence by making him one of the characters in "Frenzied Finance." Mr. Whitney's hobby in politics has been tariff reform and on that issue he was twice a year chosen Lieutenant Governor two years ago.

A year or so ago he went to Washington and called on President Roosevelt and called on President Roosevelt and called on the demand of Massachusetts tariff revisionists for certain changes in the law. Afterward he gave some statements relative to things he said the President had told him he desired, and a forcible denial from President Roosevelt followed. That started the famous "Ananias Club" and likewise much of the trouble about tariff revision, of which Massachusetts has been the center.

Senator Lodge is fighting with all his power to force the tariff and all national issues to the rear, on the ground that they have no place in a purely State campaign. The Royalican contention voted by the Legislature is that there is plenty to talk about in that period of the conduct of the State government and that the tariff has been raised to before the situation. It is expected that the national administration will lend its influence in every way it can to defeat the election of Whitney because of the personal enmity between the latter and President Roosevelt and the knowledge that Whitney's victory in a year preceding a Presidential campaign would be used throughout the country as an alleged retribution of the Roosevelt administration.

ALLEGED INJUSTICE.

Coal Operators of Pittsburgh District Claim Discrimination in Car Allocations.

Charges of unjust discrimination are being made by coal operators in the Pittsburgh district in the distribution and allotment of cars. They claim that they are facing a car shortage which is constantly growing worse. The scarcity of cars in particular places along the main line of the Pennsylvania railroad it is said that an appeal will be made to the Interstate Commerce Commission to have the matter adjusted.

Coal operators who have suffered by the alleged discrimination say that some companies are being favored through the practice of car methods. The others who sell their coal to the railroad companies are given a preference in the allotment of cars. There is a 50 per cent car short age the number of cars required for a company's business is cut in half.

But where a company owns individual cars, it receives half of its allotment of regular cars and in addition to its supply of private cars.

According to the rulings of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the railroad companies are required to count the individual cars as a portion of the general allotment. By the method of manipulation it is claimed certain companies receive 50 per cent of their regular allotment while others receive 50 per cent. The operators hope to have the evil remedied without resorting to the law, but unless it is accomplished that way, will enter suits to secure what they term justice.

SAMUEL EDWARD FROCK,

The Connellsville Man Nominated by the Democrats for Sheriff of Fayette County and Who Has Proven That He Is Eminently Fitted to Fill That Office.

FORMER CONNELLSVILLE MAN IS POPULAR AND WILL RECEIVE GENERAL SUPPORT.

A Connellsville man and one of the self-made kind that has done so much toward making Fayette county known, Samuel Edward Frock, the nominee of the Democratic party for Sheriff, is a candidate who takes well with the voters of this region and who is bound to have their hearty support. "Ed Frock, as everyone in his native seat knows him, is a man whose head has not been turned by power or fame. He is the same today as when he worked as a day laborer and he treats rich and poor alike.

Mr. Frock has a personality of the kind that wins friends and holds them. He is straightforward in all his actions, is kindly, and those who have known him for many years know that when he says a thing he means it.

Born in Carroll County, Md., November 8, 1861, he worked on his father's farm until 17 years old when he came to Pennsylvania to embark upon his own career, single-handed.

His political career has been no less successful and has been built upon some fine foundations that made him the successful business man.

In 1881 he was nominated for Tax Collector of Connellsville borough and was elected to that office by the largest majority ever given to any one in the borough. Not owning a dollar worth of real estate, he had not the slightest difficulty in giving a bond of $60,000 signed by the representative business men of Connellsville. He got out of that office with a record as well as with the friendship of those from whom he was required to collect taxes.

John D. Friske, the successful merchant and banker of Connellsville, and a strong friend both to the two began and continue strong to this day. For four years Mr. Frock was in the employ of Mr. Friske and in about the mercantile business. He next found employment with Kell Long, a prominent citizen of New Haven, and for a period of five years had charge of and conducted Mr. Long's feed store. To all of his employees he gave the same energy and ability that he afterwards devoted to his own business ventures.

UNIONTOWN Oct. 5.—About 44 acres of Springfield township land is in dispute, but the case of Sarah Jane Hickle and others to recover it from Thomas Tobin was not suited before Judge Umber Thursday afternoon. The non-suit was granted on a technical error in the action on the side of the plaintiff. Those on the plaintiff's side were Sarah Jane Hickle, Ellen Tobin, Barbara Provance, Ida Timmer and Martin Epix.

A petition liberally signed by citizens of Washington township and Yazoo City borough was presented to the court asking that sentence be suspended on Edward Gaithland, Jr., and James Garland, who were convicted of assault and battery at the last session of criminal court. The petition sets forth that the defendants have always been law abiding citizens and that the costs would be sufficient punishment for the offense.

The Ziegler Lumber Company has had Attorney Woodie N. Carr enter suit against Conrad Schell and Phoenix Schell of Jewell, Jefferson township with a view to recovering $1,269 with interest from September 16, 1907.

This is the amount of a promissory note dated August 16, 1907.
